W. & M. May Conduct Summer School Abroad

Plans are being formulated for the establishment of a William and Mary Summer School in Europe during the coming summer, with the object of giving American students an opportunity to do academic work abroad during the summer, and to receive College credit for the work.

The first school of this kind is planned to be held in Paris during the coming summer, where four courses in English will be offered, and the students allowed to select additional courses in French at the Sorbonne or the Alliance Francaise.

Dr. Chandler has put this work in the hands of Dr. C. C. Fichtner, of the Department of Economics. Dr. Fichtner has spent two years studying in Europe, and is familiar with the educational facilities offered there.

It is felt today that well-rounded, liberal education requires a certain amount of foreign contact. It is for this reason that such an institution as the University of Delaware has established a winter school in Europe. However, so far as is known, William and Mary, in establishing a summer school abroad, is creating a new priority in education.

Full announcement of courses to be offered, fees, living expenses, reductions in steamboat fare, and other information will be made later.

Belini Tablet To Be Unveiled Jan. 27

A tablet will be unveiled at William and Mary, January 27, to the memory of Charles Belini, an Italian, who became the first professor of romance language in this country in 1729. The tablet is the gift of Luigi Carnovale, a wealthy Italian of Chicago, who will make the principal address at the unveiling.

N. G. Nardini, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the Sons of Italy, will assist in the ceremonies. The Italian ambassador at Washington and the Italian consuls in this vicinity will be asked to participate in the program.

W. & M. A Member Of Debating League

The Debate Council has formed an Intercollegiate Debating League. A constitution has been drawn up and submitted to each college and university in the State. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction is president and ex-officio and his secretary is secretary ex-officio of the league. The league has a limited number of members this year. It is expected that additional members will be secured in 1924-5. As most of the colleges in the State have arranged their schedule for the academic year it was impossible for them to join the league no matter how much they so desired. A few of the colleges written to have not been heard from yet, but

Harvard-W. & M. Nines May Tour Europe

The baseball nine of William and Mary, together with that of Harvard University, may tour England and the continent this summer if plans conceived by Ted Sullivan, former American League mentor and widely known baseball figure, materialize.

William and Mary and Harvard receive the enviable honors due to the fact that they have been decided upon by Sullivan as representative schools of the country, each being the oldest institution in its respective section.

It is the plan of Sullivan to seek the sanction of the Olympic Committee, and add to the Olympic program the novel feature of American Collegiate baseball. In the contemplated tour, games will be staged in London, Paris and other European cities.

Mr. Sullivan is assured financial backing by friends in London, who upon his recent trip abroad, urged him to bring to Europe two representative American College baseball teams with the purpose of further acquainting the Old World with baseball as played by American College youths.

Until now no definite plan of action has been decided upon and the proposal is hardly beyond the controversial stage.

During the world tour of the Giants and White Sox, Sullivan was much in evidence, especially at banquets attended by notables in England and France. He responded for the American contingent on more than one occasion. A witty Irishman, a man highly regarded in baseball circles, Mr. Sullivan has at times during his life been coach, manager, league president, scout and ardent baseball booster.

Mr. Sullivan's ambitious plans have created national interest and the outcome is anxiously awaited.

Harvard was defeated by William and Mary in Richmond last spring by the count of 14 to 0.

Small Audience Hears Artists

Mrs. Annie Schmelz, soprano, and Mr. Walter Mills, baritone, of New York City, delighted a rather small audience in Jefferson Hall Wednesday, at which time they appeared in concert. The appearance was for the benefit of the equipment fund for the baseball team and girls' basketball team.

The audience, which was very small, more than made up for its lack of numbers in the extent of its appreciation. Every number was followed by storms of applause, and the artists were time and again called back for encores.

The artists were accompanied by Mr. Hughes at the piano.

The joint committee of the Women's Athletic Association met on January 5 to revise the point system. The recent arrangement is considered on the following basis:

Basketball: Varsity squad—100 points; class team and scrubs—75 points; any participants—50 points.

Hockey: Honorary varsity—100 points (as there are no inter-collegiate games); any participants—50 points.

Tennis: Winners of tournaments (singles and doubles)—100 points; girls who are last eliminated in both tournaments—90 points, the next—80 points, the next—70 points, and the next—60 points; any participant—50 points.

Archery: Winner of tournament—100 points; next in order—90, 80, 70, 60; any participant—50 points.

Hiking: All hiking must be done in connection with the hiking club; 275 miles—100 points; 250 miles—90 points; 225 miles—80 points; 200 miles—70 points; 175 miles—60 points; 150 miles—50 points.

Swimming: Those passing the Red Cross Life Saving Test—100 points; Test B—75 points; Test C—50 points.

Baseball: Honorary varsity team—100 points; any participation throughout the season—50 points.

These monograms signify work done only at William and Mary and represent a certain degree of excellence in the various sports.

THE DOUBLE-DRIBBLE

Coach Tasker is steadily building a team that will be able to cope with any in the State. The Indian quints in the past have been handicapped by the lack of weight, but the present squad will be able to hold its own with any five, in a hard and fast game. The average weight of the first string men is around 175, and with this weight the coach is perfecting a combination which will have all the marks of a championship team, namely, speed, weight, accurate shooting and passing, and a thorough knowledge of the game.

* * * *

Now that the team has three games and as many victories stowed away, they should continue their stride when they meet the Yellow-Jackets from Randolph-Macon, here tomorrow night.

* * * *

It has been noticeable in the last two games that the regular five has been developing team work, instead of one or two outstanding stars. A smooth working machine is the one that usually comes off victorious, when the final whistle blows.

* * * *

Coach Jones will start his track squad on their winter routine next week. There should be an increase in the flying squad when they resume training, as several members of the football team also star on the cinder path. The competition in the sprints and the middle distances should be exceedingly keen this year, as several very good prospects in these events have joined the squad.

* * * *

One Southern rebel again broke through the Northern lines and made Walter Camp's all-American football team. Bomar, of Vanderbilt University, was picked as an end on the mythical eleven, being the first man from the South to secure a place on this squad since Bill Fincher, of Georgia Tech, and former coach of William and Mary, had this honor; provided we exclude Centre as a Southern school.

* * * *

In exactly 20 more days we meet our old rival again. When we play Richmond University here on January 28, the spectators will witness one of the hardest contested games in the State.

* * * *

The proposed trip to Europe by the Harvard and William and Mary baseball teams would greatly aid our standing among the colleges of the country. Mr. Sullivan, who first advanced the idea, was the manager of the New York and Chicago teams when they toured the world in 1912. This should greatly increase the number of candidates for the team when Coach Tasker issues the call this spring.

Indians Trim Medicos In First Game

In the first collegiate game of the season, William and Mary's basket men defeated the Medical College of Virginia in a somewhat slow but interesting game by the score of 25-13, on December 18, in Jefferson Hall gym.

The Indians held the edge over the Medicos in experience and training, and started the game with a rush, running up a score which was proof of superiority in every phase of the game.

William and Mary was in the van at the end of the first half with a good lead, and was going strong with a fast and aggressive defensive. Excellent team work was displayed by the Indians, but their shooting was below standard and at times they experienced difficulty in finding the cage.

The second half opened with the Indian's second team on the floor, and they continued to add to the score amassed by the varsity in the initial half.

The visiting team presented a husky and hard-fighting bunch, and their defeat was due to the fact that they were easily outclassed.

The playing of Hicks and Harwood was the outstanding feature of the game, especially the spectacular shooting of Hicks, which furnished the frills of the game.

Historic Mystery Thought To Be Solved

A discovery that may lead to solution of one of the oldest mysteries of American history was made in Washington recently when a man digging a hole to plant a holly tree unearthed a leaden plate inscribed:

1590

Charles R

The inscription apparently referred to Virginia Dare, first white child born on the North American Continent, and a member of a lost colony, whose fate never has been solved.

Covered With Wax Substance

The leaden plate was covered with some substance like wax. Russell Kaufman, who found it while digging in his yard, took it to the Smithsonian Institution, where the wax was removed. The inscription then became visible.

Virginia Dare was the granddaughter of Governor John White and was born one month after the colony on Roanoke Island, now in North Carolina, was founded in 1587.

After Sir Walter Raleigh returned to England, the colony completely disappeared, without leaving trace.

Long a Mystery of History

Whether they were massacred by Indians or moved somewhere else and survived, has been one of the mysteries of American history.

The discovery of the plate may go far in solving the mystery of the "lost colony." It seems to indicate that Virginia Dare was captured by Indians before the disappearance of the colony.

Authorities of the Smithsonian Institute will investigate.

"FORTUNES"

When a girl's face is her fortune and a man is in the same fix financially, that doesn't prevent them putting their fortunes together every now and then.

"DIFFERENCE"

A man always feels like taking a day off on his birthday, but a woman feels like taking a year or two off.

Harry: "Ma, can the new maid see in the dark?"

Mother: "No, why?"

Harry: "Because I heard her tell pa in the hall last night that he hadn't shaved."

"Look here!" sternly said Squire Peavy, "this is about the seventh time you have been up before me in a year!"

"Yassah," replied Brother Hooker, "I's proud to say 'tis, 'cawdin' to muh recerlection. I never was one o' dese fluttery pussons dat's heah today and some're else tomorrow; when I like a man I gives him all muh business. Yassah, when a gen'leman wins muh 'steem I b'lieves in standin' by him."

—Gee Whiz.

Some Chicken

Customer (Studying menu): "How's the chicken today?"

Waitress: "Oh, I'm all right. How are you?"

—Gee Whiz.

"I go to bed every night between ten and eleven."

"That's too many in one bed."

Getting At His Motive

"Will you have my seat?" he inquired, politely.

"On the ground that I am aged and decrepit?" the woman asked.

"No, indeed, madam."

"That I am a young and beautiful possibly not averse to a flirtation?"

"Certainly not. That is—"

"Then it must be because you are a gentleman, in this respect differing from the fat person on the left and the scrawny specimen at the right. I am glad to learn your principles, sir, but here is my street. Good day."

—Selected.

Judge: "Did the prisoner offer any resistance?"

Copper: "Only a dollar, yer honor, and I wouldn't take it."

—Gee Whiz.

The Result

Meeks: "My wife prefers tea for breakfast, while I prefer coffee."

Bleeks: "Then I suppose it is necessary to have both, eh?"

Meeks: "Oh, no; we compromise."

Bleeks: "In what way?"

Meeks: "We have tea."

—Gee Whiz.

"Why do you get the pretty girls jobs first? Is that fair?" "Best for all concerned," declared the head of the school of stenography. "The pretty girl soon marries her employer, and then there's a permanent job for one of the plainer young ladies."

Holey roads don't always lead speeders to heaven.

The Cop: "How did you come to get hit by the car?"

The Rube: "I didn't come ter get hit by no car; I come ter visit my son-in-law."

—Gee Whiz.

Wife: "This novelist describes his heroine as being dressed in clinging white."

Husband: "Why doesn't he mention it in terms of vanishing green?"

Girls Quizzed By Student Government

Have you ever cheated?

Such was the type of startling question answered by each girl at the meeting of the Women's Student Government Monday, January 7.

The questionnaire was given for statistical reasons only. The answers were written on a slip of paper without signature, each member being on her honor not to discuss the questions with any of her neighbors.

Other questions were:

Would you report your best friend for breaking a social rule?

Would you prefer Faculty Government to Student Government?

Have you ever thought the Student Council unjust?

Are you supporting Student Government?

Lest We Neglect

The season when colds are most prevalent is beginning. The reports of the College infirmary show that the number of colds among the students exceeds that of all other diseases and injuries combined, during the months of January and February.

The majority of these colds can be prevented by a few common sense measures such as dressing in accord with the weather, avoiding over-heated living rooms and stuffy sleeping rooms, exercising one or two hours daily, bathing after such activity, completing the bath with a cold shower and caging the cough and sneeze.

Remember the words of Woods Hutchinson: "One's age is not measured by the years that have passed over his head, but by the colds that have passed through it"; and make your plans to stay young.

"WATCH HER"

When a girl begins calling you by your first name, look out for your last.

Freshmen Elect Clement and Rawls

Following a two weeks' notice from the President of the Student Body, in accordance with the constitution, the men of the freshman class met in the College Chapel on December 17 and elected representatives to the Honor and Discipline Councils.

Rutledge Clement defeated several other candidates for the office of representative on the Honor Council, by a large majority, while E. Cotton Rawls was elected to the Discipline Council. Both men will enter upon their new duties at once.

W. & M. A MEMBER OF DEBATING LEAGUE

some of them will undoubtedly join; Richmond College is one of these.

The president of the league will announce the schedule and the question for debate early in January. The Debate Council will hold preliminary debates early in January. The Debate Council will hold preliminary debates later to discover who are the men best fitted to represent the College in this branch of activities.

Further, a Tri-State Debate between the College of Charleston, South Carolina, Wake Forest, North Carolina, and the College of William and Mary will be opened to the members of the debating team.

At least four men will have positions on each debating team and if further arrangements go through, there may be room for more. The men who make the teams will not only profit by educational development through debate and the pleasure of making trips, but will receive medals; and, what is more important, the winners of the league championship will be accepted as the best two debaters in their respective States.

IT'S LEAP YEAR

Be careful what you say and do. It's Leap Year.

Be careful who you're talking too. It's Leap Year.

The slightest act, the slightest deed, will trouble you if you don't heed, and you will fall with double speed. It's Leap Year.

Be sure to think before you speak. It's Leap Year.

Be sure you're right before you seek. It's Leap Year.

A slip of tongue, a slight mistake, will have you trailing in it's quake, and trouble that will surely make. It's Leap Year.

Be sure you're right before you call. It's Leap Year.

Be sure you're right before you FALL. It's Leap Year.

And if by chance you're on the go, to library halls or picture show, be sure the girl you really know. It's Leap Year. —D.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN
1706-1790

Printer, journalist, diplomat, inventor, statesman, philosopher, wit. One of the authors of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, author of Poor Richard's Almanack; and one of the most eminent natural philosophers of his time.

But nobody had thought to do it

By bringing electricity down from the clouds over a kite string, it was a simple thing to prove that lightning was nothing more than a tremendous electrical flash.

For centuries before Franklin flew his kite in 1751 philosophers had been speculating about the nature of lightning. With electrified globes and charged bottles, others had evolved the theory that the puny sparks of the laboratory and the stupendous phenomenon of the heavens were related; but Franklin substituted fact for theory — by scientific experiment.

Roaring electrical discharges, man-made lightning as deadly as that from the clouds, are now produced by scientists in the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company. They are part of experiments which are making it possible to use the power of mountain torrents farther and farther from the great industrial centers.

Electrical machines bearing the mark of the General Electric Company, in use throughout the world, are raising standards of living by doing the work of millions of men.

"Where the Pavement Ends," there romance begins—and there is no pavement beneath the feet of life in the South Seas. Dr. Fichtner Plans Industrial Tours

With the end in view of giving to students practical insights into industrial affairs, Dr. C. C. Fichtner, Professor of Economics, has arranged a series of factory tours in Richmond, Norfolk, and Newport News.

The first trip will be to the factories of the American Tobacco Co., and the Albemarle Paper Co., in Richmond, on Friday and Saturday, January 18 and 19.

Any student interested in making these trips may arrange to do so by seeing Dr. Fichtner.

New Baptist Pastor Relates Experiences

After having been a Catholic Priest in old Ireland for sixteen years, Patrick Dennison is now minister of the Baptist Church in Williamsburg.

"I have roamed quite a lot," Mr. Dennison said when interviewed by a Flat Hat reporter. "I have visited every capital in the world, and to my mind, New Zealand is the nearest to my ideal of a country in which to live. It has the most perfect climate, the most up-to-date laws, the truest democracy."

"The English people," he said, "have a great deal of freedom—much more than do the Americans, in a way. In America we stress political rights, while in England personal rights are of paramount importance. The chief privilege of an American citizen is the ballot, but in England a man cares most for the peace and rest of his home. There is a law in England that makes a man's home inviolate from sun-down to sun-up, and it cannot be entered against the owner's will for any purpose. This is only one example of the stress laid upon personal liberty in England."

In speaking of the various peoples he had seen in his travels, Mr. Dennison said that perhaps he is more interested in the Eskimos than in any other on earth. "I lived with them for eighteen years," he stated, "and I am here to say that the impression that the Eskimo is a squat, fat, greasy creature is entirely erroneous. They are a large muscular race, perfect workmen, and they possess a sense of humor that is exceptionally keen. An Eskimo appreciates a good story or a practical joke as well as any white man."

In speaking of his native land, Mr. Dennison said that Ireland today is the freest nation on earth. "She has gained through bloodshed and turmoil," he said, "a freedom that she could have had years ago if she had not been too misguided to recognize it."

the pool in Jefferson Hall Wednesday afternoon.

Captain Scully, who expects to hold a swimming institute in Richmond during the coming summer, is in charge of the life-saving department of the American Red Cross for the Eastern United States.

During his visit Wednesday Captain Scully gave demonstrations of the Schaefer method in life-saving, and drilled the freshman gym classes in the art of resuscitation. He lectured on the correct "carries" and "breaks" in saving drowning people.

Captain Scully expects to return to William and Mary in the near future, at which time he will make further demonstrations. Classes in resuscitation will be offered as part of the regular freshman gymnasium work.

Phoenix Lit. Society Elects New Officers

Installation of officers for the Winter Quarter was the main feature of the first meeting of the Phoenix Literary Society this year, held last Saturday night. T. C. Lawford, the new president, presided over the meeting, making a short and forceful talk on the outlook of the Society for the new year, and stating his aims in a brief outline.

Each of the new officers then made talks on their observations of the work that other literary societies of the State are carrying on. Their general tone was one of optimism and hope for the future in making William and Mary's oldest society the best in the State.

The new officers installed were:

T. C. Lawford, President.

C. J. Kyle, Vice-President.

R. L. Wells, Secretary.

J. J. Ambler, Treasurer.

Joe Merrill, Chaplain,

W. G. Neale, Sergeant-at-Arms.

MARY'S

This College has known Williams since 1693.

So I recount the Marys, as sweet as sweet can be.

Some come from homes of plenty, some from frugal care

But soon they are identical. Assume the College air.

For whether they be Margarets or Sallie, Sues or Janes

The one absorbing passion is, to swap their clothes and change.

"You lend me yours and you wear mine." "This is a darling hat."

"I love these shoes." "Are those your gloves?" "My lip stick's not like that."

And once when we played Richmond, 'twas baseball, in the spring,

A Mary came in our room and said this scandalous thing:

"I want to go to Richmond, but my stockings are a sight.

Lend me what you are wearing; I'll bring them back all right."

So in the borrowed stockings, and shoes, and hat, and dress,

And underclothes, and face paint, and purse, cash too, I guess,

She rode in joy to Richmond and had a perfect day

Laid one more block in character, to live her borrowed way.

I wonder if there is one girl among the Marys here

Who has enough of courage, who lacks enough of fear

To bravely face the borrower and say in tones, true blue—

"I will not lend you my clothes, nor borrow clothes of you." —Holt.
